About me

I am a full-stack developer from Nairobi, Kenya, currently studying Applied Computer Technology at the United States International University Africa (USIU-A) and recently graduated from code bootcamp at Moringa School. I love to write software and to bring ideas to life by solving real world problems.

Experience

Global Ambassador, Duolingo: 2018 - 2019

As a global ambassador for Duolingo, I hosted events in Nairobi for all learners of the German language on the platform. The meet ups were important in establishing a community of learners from Duolingo in Nairobi and providing a means of practising of the language with monthly themes and learning resources created by fellow hosts for sharing with the attendees to assist in improving and reinforcing the language.
